

NAVE NEWELL ANNOUNCES THE RETIREMENT OF STEPHEN G. NAVE, PE

King of Prussia, Pennsylvania (October 21, 2009) – Nave Newell, Inc., an engineering, planning and surveying firm, announced today that Stephen G. Nave, PE, a founding principal of Nave Newell, will retire after 25 years in the land development consulting industry. He plans to pursue other development interests. “Steve and I are proud of our accomplishments and the company we have built. I look forward to continuing to work with Steve on new development projects,” said Gregory C. Newell, PE, President of Nave Newell, Inc.

Lifelong friends, Greg and Steve started the company in 1992 out of their basements. Over the past 17 years, the firm has grown and currently employs 30 professionals. During that time, Greg and Steve have seen a dramatic change in the complexity of the real estate development process and have continuously strived to exceed expectations of their clients and employees.

Nave Newell has taken advantage of the down economy and decrease in land development opportunities to refocus its business plan, expand into different markets, strengthen existing relationships and make new contacts. As a result, the firm looks forward to many years of success with Greg Newell continuing to oversee operations and manage significant projects.

Nave Newell Inc., based in King of Prussia, Pennsylvania, is a multi-discipline consulting firm that specializes in land development and provides expertise in land planning, civil engineering, land surveying / high-definition survey and landscape architecture. For more information on Nave Newell's leadership, visit: http://www.navenewell.com/n_leaders.php